WORKERS' COMPENSATION BOARD'S 2011 ANNUAL REPORT

The Workers' Compensation WCB (WCB) is pleased to submit its 2011 annual report. Pursuant to Workers' Compensation Law § 153, this report sets forth basic data regarding the WCB's operations, including assembly and adjudication of workers' compensation claims and issuance of stop work orders against employers that fail to maintain appropriate workers' compensation coverage.

WCB Operations

The WCB maintains 11 district offices throughout the state. (Appendix ("A") – 1.)

Stop Work Orders

Nearly all employers in New York State are required to secure workers' compensation insurance. In 2007, the WCB gained the authority to issue a stop work order (SWO) if an employer fails to maintain required workers' compensation coverage or to pay WCB penalties (WCL § 141-a). The SWO has proven to be an effective vehicle to promote compliance. Since 2007, the WCB has issued 6,897 SWOs. In 2011, the WCB issued 1,477 SWOs, the overwhelming majority of SWOs were issued downstate – 1,097 in New York City. (A – 2.)

Claims

Assembly

Claim assembly occurs when the WCB learns of a workplace injury and assigns the claim a WCB claim number.¹ The WCB "assembles" a claim in which an injured worker has lost more than one week of work, has a serious injury that may result in a permanent disability, is disputed by the carrier or employer, or receives a claim form from the injured worker (Form C-3). In August 2011, the WCB began assembling every claim for which it received a Notice to Chair of Carrier's Action on Claim for Benefits (Form C-669).

The number of assembled claims increased 1% over 2010 to 123,245. (A – 3.) This represents the second consecutive increase in the number of assembled claims after eight consecutive years of declining claim counts. (A – 3.) The geographic distribution of assembled claims is reflected in the map at A – 5.

Reopened Claims

There was a 16% increase in reopened claims over 2010 (227,030 v. 196,160). (A – 3.) A reopened claim is one that has been reactivated to resolve new issues following a finding that no further action was necessary. We believe that the introduction of Medical Treatment Guidelines (MTG) in December 2010 is likely responsible for a significant ¹Claim assembly was introduced in 2008 in connection with the "Rocket Docket" regulations for controverted claims, part of the 2007 reform. Prior to 2008, new claims were both assembled and "indexed" when the WCB received notice of the workplace injury. The standard for assembling a claim is very similar to that of indexing for claims before 2008. The count of assembled claims excludes claims that are assigned a WCB claim number but for which the Board does not receive sufficient information, despite requests, to take further action.

portion of the increase. The Board reopened many claims, some of which were many years old, to resolve disputes over whether medical treatment that was not recommended by the MTG (for which a variance was submitted and denied by the carrier) should be approved.

Controverted Claims

Controverted claims are those in which the insurance carrier or self-insured employer challenges the injured worker's eligibility for workers' compensation benefits and in which a pre-hearing conference is held.² The 2007 reform created the Rocket Docket to speed the resolution of controverted claims and to reduce the incidence of unnecessarily controverted claims. Since 2008, the number of controverted claims has declined dramatically. In 2011, there were 9,008 controverted claims (A – 6.) There has been a similar decline in the number of C-7 forms filed, with 18,439 filed in 2011. (A – 6.) A breakdown of controverted claims by district is at A – 7. The rate of controversy, measured at 90, 180 and 360 days, is relatively stable at 7 – 7.4%. (A – 8.)

The Rocket Docket sets a goal of having a pre-hearing conference within 30 days of the date of controversy and of resolving the controverted claim within 90 days. On average, pre-hearing conferences were held after just 26 days (A – 9), and on average it took 75 days to address the issues in the controverted claims. (A – 10.) Nearly 60% of controverted claims met the goal of being resolved within 90 days, while another 21% were resolved in 91-180 days. (A – 11.)

Accepted Claims

Regulations require the WCB to issue a formal decision determining liability in all claims involving more than one week of lost time, even if the carrier has accepted the claim and is making payment. The WCB also issues such determinations in claims that are assembled where there is no compensatory lost time. To find liability, the WCB must determine that there was 1) an accident or occupational disease, 2) timely notice given to the employer, and 3) a causal relationship between the work injury or illness and the consequential disability. This is known as ANCR³ or ODNCR⁴.

In 2011, the WCB established 103,052 claims, 102,451 under the Workers' Compensation Law and the remaining 601 under either the Volunteer Firefighter or Volunteer Ambulance Workers Benefit Laws. (A – 12.) The breakdown of established claims by district is in A – 14. These claims include both controverted and non-controverted claims. Almost a third of these claims were established within 90 days from assembly, and more than 70% were established within 180 days.⁵ (A – 14.)

² Carriers file a C-7 form to challenge a claim, but the WCB's business rules do not treat a claim as controverted unless a qualifying medical form is filed by an authorized health care provider. In many claims, the carrier withdraws the C-7 or the claimant does not pursue the claim.

³ Accident, Notice, Causal Relationship

⁴ Occupational Disease, Notice, Causal Relationship

⁵ 4,122 established claims were excluded from the analysis of duration to acceptance due to data anomalies. (A – 14.)

Claim Resolution

By statute, the WCB resolves issues in workers' compensation claims through both formal and informal means. Formal resolution refers to the formal hearing process, in which a workers' compensation law judge receives evidence, hears testimony, decides disputed legal and factual questions, and awards benefits. Informal resolutions do not involve hearings. Decisions are made based on information collected in the electronic case file of the injured worker. Informal resolutions, which include administrative determinations and conciliation, are used to memorialize certain events in a claim that require a WCB decision or to propose a decision when there is no significant dispute between the parties. Informal resolutions are proposed by the WCB and are not effective if either party objects within 30 days.

In 2011, the WCB issued 329,319 resolutions, almost 60% of which were formal. There were 191,319 formal resolutions in 2011, including 12,256 that involved Section 32 waiver agreements. (A – 15.) In 2011, there were 71,334 administrative determinations and 56,666 conciliation decisions. (A – 15.) Relative to 2010, there was a modest decline in formal resolutions and a significant increase in informal resolutions, particularly conciliation decisions. (A – 15.)

Hearings

The WCB is unique in the country for its use of formal hearings to address issues in workers' compensation claims. In 2011, the WCB held 266,046 hearings, more than any other state in the country. (A – 16.) The number of hearings declined by more than 10%, despite the increase in number of claims assembled and reopened, in part due to the WCB using informal resolution more effectively. (A – 17.) On average, 1.5 hearings were required before the first indemnity benefit was awarded for those claims handled by the hearing process. (A – 19.)

Although the WCB has steadily reduced the number of claims pending at the end of the year, 2011 saw the first increase in claims in ten years (99,995 compared to 85,286 in 2010). The increase is due in part to a reduction in judges in 2011 (nine judges resigned or retired and two were on extended medical leaves in 2011).

Average Weekly Wage

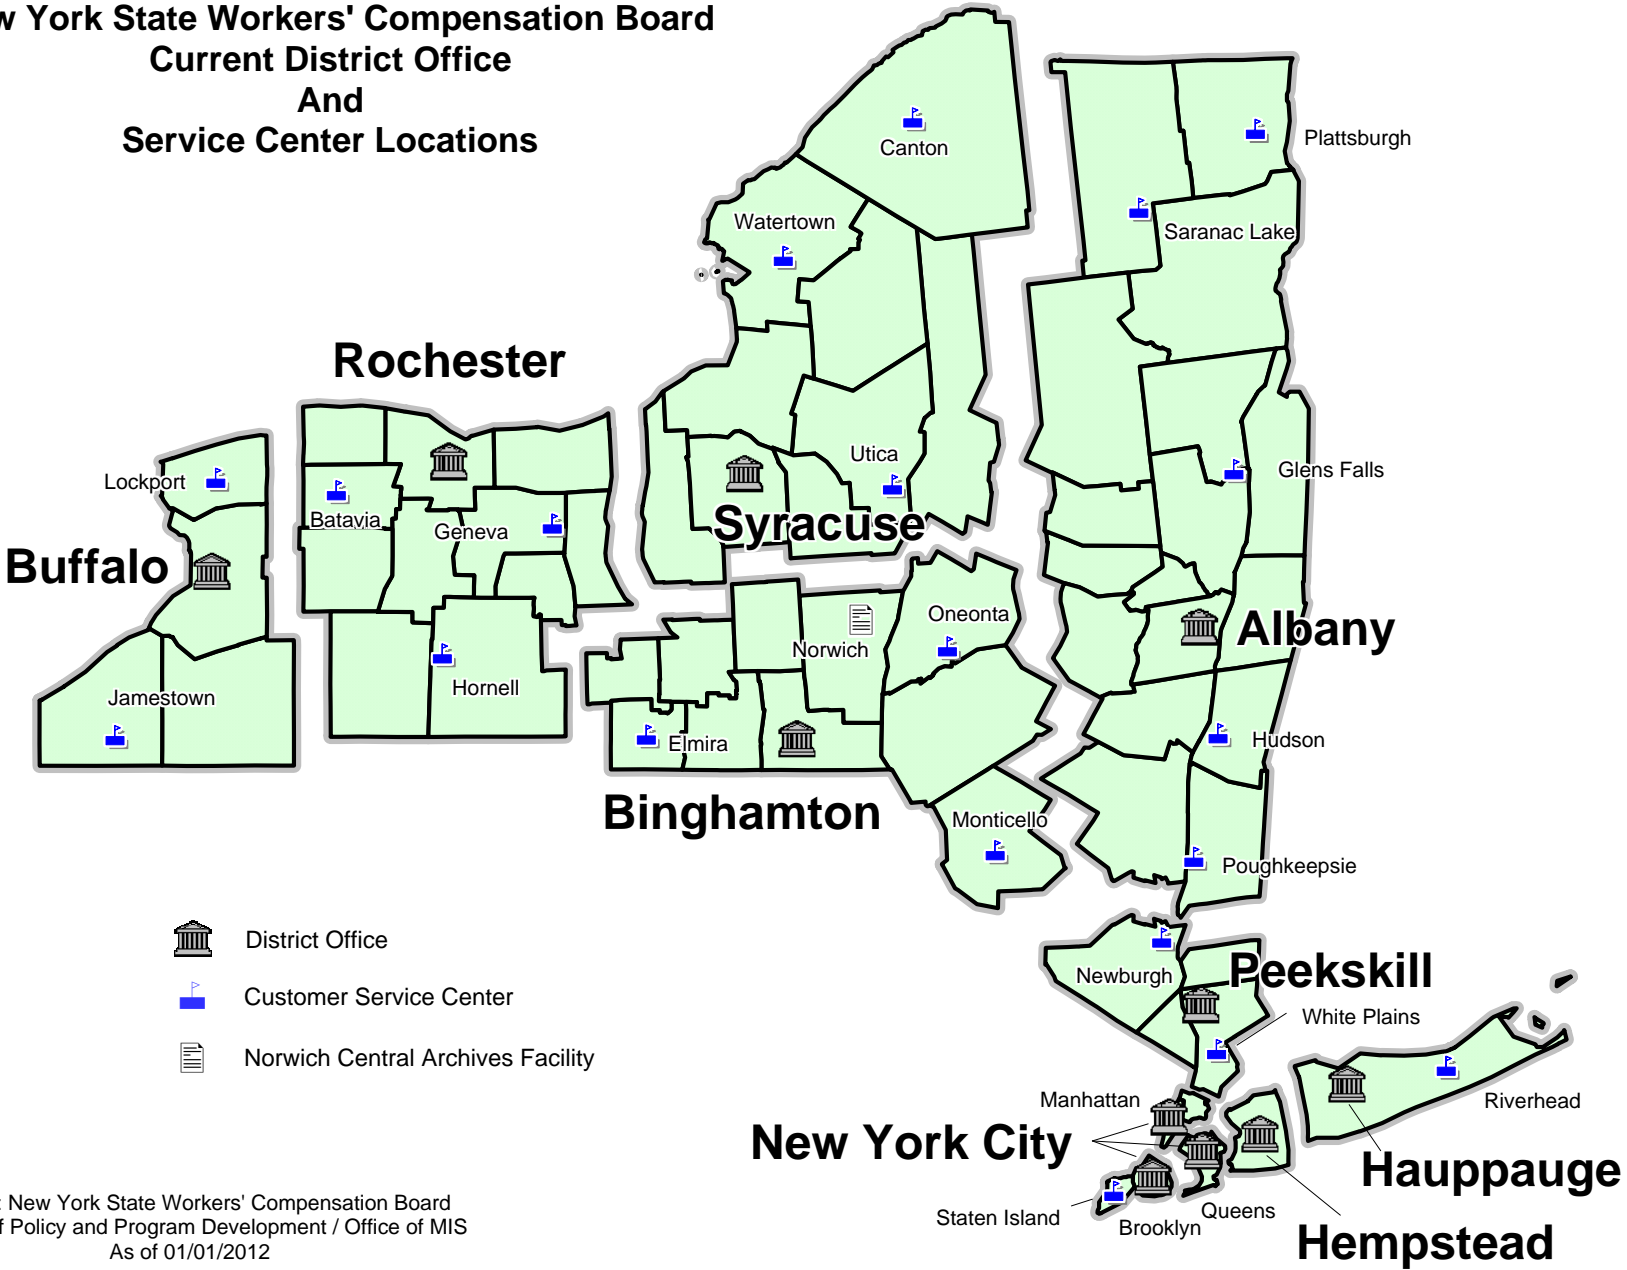

Indemnity benefits are based on the injured worker's average weekly wage (AWW) in the year prior to the accident, subject to statutory maximum benefit rates. The 2007 reform provided for a series of increases in the maximum benefit rate for the first time in more than a decade. For accidents between July 1, 2011 and June 30, 2012, the maximum rate is $772.96, which is 2/3 of the prior year's state average weekly wage. This was a 4.5% increase over the 2010-11 maximum rate.

There is a wide distribution of AWW in established claims in 2011. More than 36% of claimants had an AWW of less than $600, while 22.2% had an AWW above the state average weekly wage of $1,159.44 and another 26.9% had an AWW between $750 and $1,159.44. (A – 21.)

The count of claims assembled post WCB reform (after September 28, 2008) excludes claims that were assigned a WCB claim number but for which the Board did not receive sufficient information, despite requests, to take further action. Claims that were handled using an Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) program were not included in the above count of claims. ADR claims are handled outside of the traditional Workers' Compensation System in New York State. The WCB has changed its claim assembly process several times over the past few years. While this makes trend analysis difficult, the number of claims assembled continues to reflect the number of reported workplace injuries for which the agency may be called upon to resolve issues, monitor compliance and ensure the timely and appropriate payment of benefits.

A reopened claim is one which has been reactivated to resolve new issues following a finding that no further action was necessary.

| Total | 319,319 | 100.0% |

“Administrative” includes Administrative Determinations, Administrative Closures and Cancellations (A claim is cancelled if it is determined to be a duplicate).

“Conciliation” provides an informal and prompt resolution of the claim based upon the cooperation of both parties: the injured worker and the insurance carrier/self-insured employer.

A claim resolved by the “Hearing” process is one for which a judge had determined that no further action by the Board was necessary at the conclusion of the hearing, this includes Pre-Hearing Conferences. A Pre-Hearing Conference provides a mechanism for the identification of issues and relevant evidence and to permit parties [in interest] an opportunity to assess their case and to resolve outstanding issues prior to [trial] scheduling a hearing regarding those issues.

“Waiver Agreements” settle any or all issues in a claim for workers’ compensation benefits, subject to the Board’s approval.
